time, he conducted numerous major international cartel investigations, including precedent-setting cases in the financial services sector involving LIBOR and Forex benchmark rates.

Jindrich is a frequent speaker and author on competition law and maintains deep connections within the international enforcement community. He has been a visiting professor of competition law at Université Catholique de Lille since 2010.

Amanda Urquiza

Amanda Urquiza is a partner at Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, where she practices corporate and securities law. She is a leader in her firm's capital markets and public company practices. Her practice includes all aspects of company representation, including corporate governance, SEC compliance, 1934 Act issues, public offerings, private placements, and mergers and acquisitions. She has extensive experience advising boards and management teams on their most complex governance and disclosure matters. She also is a frequent speaker and author on governance matters of all types. She co-chairs her firm's Sustainability and ESG Advisory practice and is active in Wilson Sonsini's sustainability and diversity and inclusion efforts. She is an avid wildlife photographer and shark diver.

Adam Wasserman

Adam Wasserman is the Founder and Executive Director of Finpublica. With more than two decades of legal, financial services, and nonprofit experience, Adam is dedicated to working with finance leaders to help them, their companies, and the industry achieve the UN's sustainable development goals.

In addition to founding Finpublica, Adam Wasserman is the Managing Member of August Way Law & Consulting PLLC – a bespoke law firm helping financial industry clients achieve excellence, innovation, and sustainability, while remaining compliant with their regulatory requirements. Adam previously spent more than seven years as the Head of Enforcement of the New York Stock Exchange – where he rebuilt its market regulation department and led its preeminent enforcement program. Adam also served as a litigation partner for a leading global law firm, where he represented financial services clients in institution defining matters, led the New York office's award-winning pro bono program, and was recognized for his “experienced, sage counsel.”

Adam was selected as one of 20 executives from around the world to participate in the Aspen Institute's Finance Leaders Fellowship – focused on promoting public-spirited leadership in finance and society. He has emerged as a leader on Environmental, Social and Governance issues – founding ESG Encouragement – the predecessor to Finpublica. Adam is also the Chair of Knology – a not-for-profit organization focused on leveraging social science research to support the environment, culture, and financial inclusion.

Adam is a graduate of Pomona College and Harvard Law School. He lives in the suburbs of New York, with his wife, two children, and a cavapoo named Hamilton.
